Dear Expectant Mother,

Thank you so much for considering me to adopt your baby. I want you to know you are extremely selfless and what you are doing has my upmost respect. The journey you are going through is beyond my comprehension, but just know you have my full support. I hope to share these same values with your baby so he or she can grow up to be someone of whom we are all proud.

I know this will not ease the pain, but be assured I will provide a loving and stable home, one with exploration of the great outdoors, baking brownies, game nights, and cultural activities. I can't wait to make memories with your child and provide the roots so he or she can fly. Please know your child will be loved always and surrounded by family and friends. We may not share the same genes, but there will be love and acceptance always.

A mother's love begins before the child is born and lasts a lifetime. Thank you for looking at my profile and considering me.

ABOUT ME

My family and friends describe me as spontaneous, loyal, and determined. My mother was my best friend and motivator, until her passing a few years ago. My father is the strong, silent type, but I still know that he loves me no matter what. I grew up in a large city running the neighborhood with my brother, sister and other children my age.

WORD TO DESCRIBE ME

Genuine

My love for the outdoors stemmed from those days spent playing outside after school, and I realized that I wanted to settle in a place that highlights nature. I enjoy spending time with my son, taking walks, reading, baking, and dancing. Because of my desire to motivate others, I became a professor. I have been a professor for over fifteen years and it is most fulfilling.

Aiden is a four-year boy that never met a book he didn't love and a dinosaur that he didn't want to play with. He loves to learn about oceans, narwhals, sharks, dolphins, whales, and jaguars, just to name a few. He also loves to dance. He is kind, intelligent, and willing to show anyone how to properly work a toy. He is excited to be a big brother and would love the opportunity to teach your baby how to do things – like make ice pops at home.

OUR HOME

and community

I live in a college town, off of a quiet street where I can look out my back windows and see nothing but tall beautiful trees. I have plenty of room and love in my home to share with your child. I recently decided to try my thumb at gardening with vegetables and herb plants. I have a community town center with a large playground and swimming pool. There are lots of trails in my area for walking, biking and hiking. There are tons of parks and restaurants, with schools being less than 2 miles away. I would love to share this with your child.

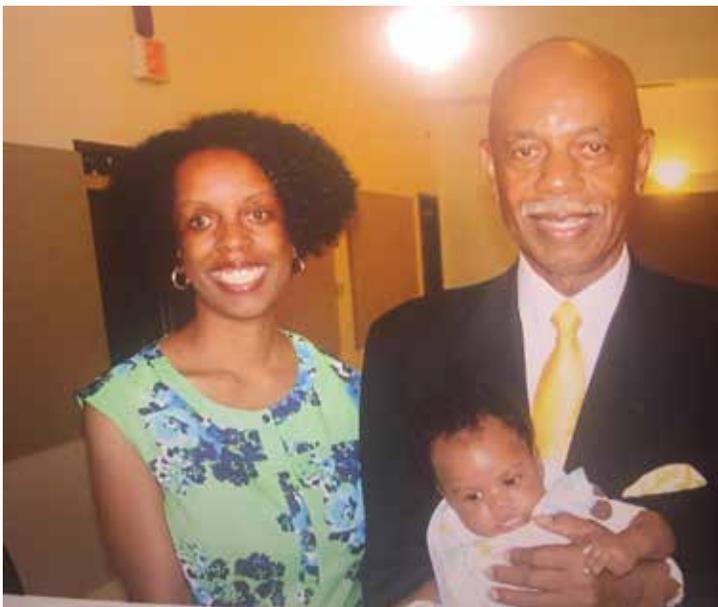

I recently moved into a new home in a small college town. My community has a swimming pool, a playground, a toddler park, two dog parks, and several community parks. I chose this neighborhood because it will be able to walk to local shops and restaurants. There are a ton of kids – ranging between newborns to high schoolers – and after only living here for a short while, I know this neighborhood is special. Families look out and support each other. The schools are wonderful. It's safe and clean.

MY FAMILY

and friends

My extended family has always lived farther than a quick car ride away. However, we have always been close. My brother, sister and I spent every summer with our grandparents in Arkansas. That was when some of my best memories were made—taking walks after dinner with my grandfather, cooking and playing cards with my grandmother, and playing with my cousins. Aside from those summers, my grandparents would come visit us, further cementing the bond.

Now that everyone is grown up, we have family reunions every other year, and I still find the time to head to Michigan, to visit my brother and his family. I am very fortunate that my father lives near me, as he cannot wait to have another child to spoil and pass on some family traditions, such as holiday dinners and movie nights.

MY ADOPTION STORY

As a child, I experienced the selfless love and devotion of two loving parents. My childhood was not perfect, but I was happy. Every child deserves a childhood full of love, support and dedication. I want to pass on that experience to another child. My mother spent countless hours telling me how I could do anything I wanted and I believed her.

Now, I get to encourage students in my classes. While I love encouraging students in my career, I want to further foster that passion with a child. I want to provide a loving and supportive home for your child to grow. I want to be there for the ups and downs, loving that child no matter what.

THANK  YOU

Thank you for taking the time to read about us. We look forward to getting to know you.
